

I do not think that one company should rule the media world. Let some other smaller companies get their chance to own some networks and let them grow. It is not like there is some prize for seeing who can own the most networks. Give the litte companies a chance to succeed.